Among the prisoners exchanged and just arrived at New Orleans, were 270 of the 8th United States infantry, who have been held ever since the treachery of Gen. Twiggs, in Texas. They give exciting accounts of the indignities to which they counts of the indignities to which they and willing hearts, to strike down the trai-have been subjected. sent to Camp Verde, where the men suf-fered all sorts of privations. They were then removed on the Indian frontier, and most of the men got the scurvy. Dr.
Payne, Confederate surgeon, refused them medical attendance, and said if he had his way he would shoot them like dogs. On New Year's day, 1862, they were drawn up in line and informed by Captain Ashby, of McGulloch's regiment, that if they held any conversation with the citizens or the negroes, they would be hung like dogs to certain trees, which were pointed out in the vicinity; and further, if they passed bepointed out, they would be fired on by the guard. The authorities finally becoming incensed at their determination to enlist in the rebel service, they were imprisoned at Fort Mason, and kept under close guard.
On the 28th of June, 1862, they were started again for San Antonio, where they arrived in the latter part of July. On the march they were pointed out a tree, near a town called Fredericksburg, upon which seventy five Union men had been hung.

O'THE FIRST OF JANUARY, 1808, we gave notice to our costomers that their bills were ready for settlement. To those who were prompt, we returned that Many, however, have not yet complied with our request. To speck we, would say, we hope they will see the importance of doing so at once as a matter of justice to themseever as well as to us.
